Continuation of Substance of Interview including description of the general nature of what was agreed to if an agreement was reached, or any other comments: Applicant and representative have summarized the effect of obviating resources when the invention is claiming using a description file processing step in order to translate a procedure/function call in a target language w/o the otherwise exhaustive effort to retrieve libraries of a given signature description of a function given from another input language. The examiner has directed attention to Applicant that using such a description file reads on a common interface language known in the art, and that the claimed invention needs to be elaborating on the how's of this processing step, and doing so with heedful consideration about what interface language such as IDL, or XML-- or similar type of language neutral specification entail in known methodologies to translate source to target programming construct; notably when the understanding is that the translation is about how to create a call not just a function instance. Also put forth in the discussion are the steps taken by the Office to go about analyzing whether a claim satisfies the non-statutory requirements of USC 101, to yield a concrete tangible result based on an action to transform data; and both Applicant and representative have ~~agree~~ agreed to start the amendment based thereupon..
